D., April 21 .- (Special to The Bee.)-Mrs. Thomas, the newly appointed postmistress of the Deadwood postoffice, has received her commission and has taken possestion of the office. She has surrounded herself with an entirely new force, with the exception of Charles Winn, the delivery clerk, who is retained. It is said that her selection of assistants has been a very wise one.

A fatal accident occurred on the Elkhorn railroda near Tilford, resulting in the death of William Whistler. The victim of the acci-dent was one of the oldest residents of the Black Hills country and was 62 years old. He was run down while walking along the Elkhorn track by a passenger train. The engineer saw him and blew the whistle, but did not slacken the spe≡d of the train, thinking that the man would step as de when the train got a little closer. The man did not, however, step aside, but was struck by the cylinder of the locomotive.

No Compromise with the Overland. CHICAGO, April 21.-Chairman Caldwell of the Western Passenger association returned today from New York where for two weeks he has been regulating the emigrant situation. His first action today was to call a meeting of the lines interested to discuss the situation. It was unanimously deter-mined to continue the fight against the Union Pacific, no matter what action the Southern Pacific might take.

The trouble among the striking miners of Blue Creek, Ala., is about settled. There will be no disturbance. The miners employed by the Santa Fe at the Frontenac mines, Pittsburg, Pa., decided not to go out on April 21.

Grand Master Sargeant of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has agreed to ac-cept the nomination for congressman for Indiana if tendered him.

The Baltimore Union for Public Good, under the Arena auspiers, has started its work by asking all the ministers to preach against the "Tenement House System." May day will be celebrated in many of the eastern cities. New York will endeavor to surpass the monster eight hour parades that are becoming common in London. About thirty men in the rail department of the steel works at Pueblo, Colo., have struck because they want $1.50 per ton for rails instead of $1.36, the price paid.

The strike situation at the Standard silk mill at Easton, Pa., remains quiet. The strikers have resolved to give a ball to raise funds for the needy ones in their ranks. Davis, McSloy and Simkoski, the labor leaders at Uniontown, Pa., were held without ball on the charge of murdering Engineer J. H. Paddock, Darby, another of the leaders, was discharged. The strike of the silk workers at Paterson, N. J., is spreading so rapidly that all the mills will be forced to close. The striking ribbon weavers have secured the co-operation of the broad silk weavers.

Toronto Trades' Assembly and the Patrons of industry, a jowerful farmers' or ani at on, have come together, both indu trially and politically, and expect to accomplish great things for reform in the future.

Indications from all over the country to a revival of the labor movement, and the officers of the big central and national bodies are of the opinion that more enthusiasm and determination will be displayed than in 1886. The male and female weavers employed by

Folwell Bros. & Co., manufacturers of dress goods, Philadelphia, are out on a strike because the firm would not restore the rate of wages paid before a reduction of 15 per cent made last fall. L. Harter of Ocklawaha, Fla., says that he is endeavoring to form the Florida Co-operative association, and will have employment for 200 people if they can bring $1 each. He proposes to buy 400 acres and commence fruit growing on a large scale. The boycott declared last winter by the Miners union and Knights of Labor on the merchants of Dealwood and all Deadwood institutions for the stand taken by the Dead-wood people in the late labor troubles at the Annie Creek mines has been declared off. Joseph H. Choate, the great lawyer, re-cently said that the suffering, severe as it is among the vast number of unemployed workers, would be intensified beyond de-scription were it and that the poor, who have little, most humanely share that with their fellow sufferers. Committees representing the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers association and the Fall River Mule Spinners association held a conference recently. The manufacturers said that a majority of the trimmers favored a 10 per cent reduction in wages; the spinners preferred a curtailment of production. No agreement was reached. The factory inspectors of New York state recently met in convention and expressed themselves strongly in favor of the eight-hour work day, especially for women and children. The eight-hour laws of other states are quoted, and the example of the cigarmakers in enforcing the eight-hour day is declared worthy of general imitation.

The petition to the legislature to provide relief for the unemployed by instituting a system of parks, bathhouses, municipal lodging houses and meeting halls, which is being circulated in New York City, is gaining signatures rapidly. The petition was started by Dr. Stanton Coit, who expects to get 50,000 signatures and thinks the legislature will regard the names with awe.

Mr. Ryder has introduced into the New York assembly a bill providing in cities of nore than 10 000 inhabitants for direct legis ation. Any bill petitioned for by 5 per cent of the voters shall be either passed by the council or voted on at the next election, while, on the "initiative" of 10 per cent of the voters a special election is at once to be held. The "referendum" is only to be optional with the city council.

The committee which awarded the contract recently for uniforms for the immi-gration service of the United States stipulated that each uniform should bear a tail union label, and the stipulation was included in the contract. Superintendent of Immigration Stump and Deputy Commis-sioner McSweeney of the port of New York are said to be entitled to the credit for this concession to organized labor.

Officers of every labor organization in Pittshurg received a secret circular calling or a conference in Philadelphia, April 28, to consider a consolidation of all labor unions of the country in order to present a solid front when demanding concessions from employers and legislators. The circular is signed by Joseph R. Buchanan, 45 Park Place, New York, who, while not an official of any labor organization, claims to be a representative of all and has good backing.

The first organization of employes of the Pullman Car company at Pullman ever at-tempted will be perfected under the auspices of the newly formed American Railway union. Since the initiatory meeting several hundred painters, car builders and upholsterers have given their adhesion to the or-ganization, and it starts out with a membership roll of nearly 1,000. Some of the mem are afraid that the Pullman interests will attempt to throttle the new movement. Follies Bergere, Parts, in 1892, The new dance is as wierd as it is effective. The dancer appears to be literally on fire, or what is still more remarkable, her whole body seems to be transparent, these effects, of course, being produced by elictricity. Miss Stuart has had a very varied career. She was born at Gettysburg. Pa., the daughter of Dr. T. Tato, who served through the civil war as army surgeon to the northern forces. She made several tours throughout the states, playing in such light comedy companies as the Salisbury Troubadours and the Evans & Hoey company. On the termination of these engagements Miss Stuart lived for eighteen months on a ranch in California, where she proved horself an expert horsewoman. Tiring at length of a monotonous life, she crossed the Atlantic, and, after a brilliant engagement at the Follies Bergere, made a prolonged tour in the French provinces. Since then she has visited the chief capitals of Europe, making stay of no less than five months in Madrid and other Spanish towns.

After a long period of slack business the Palace theater has suddenly bounded into popularity, due to the ceaseless efforts of the management to provide a first-class entertainment. On the 23d inst. Miss Cissy Loftus, the young lady who went direct from the convent where she was educated to the variety stage, will enter upon an en-gagement at this hall, her contract with Mr. Godwards having expired. She will give imitations of the leading burlesque ictors and actresses in London-a type of performance in which she excels.

On Thursday last, Primrose day, Mr. Charles Morton, manager of the Palace theater, celebrated the event by the addition to his new series of tableaux vivant n the shape of a reproduction of the Beaconsfield statue at Westminster, covered with its masses of primrose wreaths and other decorations of the day. The statue made a great hit.

Mr. William Ackerman has just published in this city a new play, entitled "Inc Cross of Sorrow," and has deposited a copy of it with the librarian of congress at Washington, in order that it may be duly copyrighted in the United States. copies of "The Cross of Sorrow" are English printed copies, and they have been so deposited at Washington in order that a test may be made as to whether the copyright can be legally forced, as there is provision in the copyright law which pro-vides that copies of plays sent to Washington for copyright must be printed in the United States.

The chief attraction at the Tivoli continues to be Mile, Jane May in her charming monomime, "Monsieur et Madame Pierrot," which is followed by a remarkably clever burlesque of Sarah Bernhardt in various characters. Since her last appearance in London in "L' Enfant Prodigue, Mile. May has been playing at the Ambigu and Varieties in Paris.

Mr. Gilbert has written a letter in which he says that his disputes with Sir Arthur Sullivan are due to the latter's insisting as a condition to writing a new opera that the control of the London rights in their fourteen previous collaborated operas be given to D'Oyle Carte on unreasonable and inadequate terms.

The negotiations which have been on foot to engage Yvette Guilbert at the Empire theater for £200 weekly have collapsed. Mile. Guilbert and Miss Loie Fuller are now seeking for a theater in London in which to open on their own account.
Princess Christian opened the Children's

Salon at the Westminster town hall this afternoon. The Children's Salon was founded by Mr. J. C. Wood of the Gentlewoman, with the object of cultivating the literary and artistic talents of children and young ladies, while at the same time aiding the cause of charities. It numbers some 2,000 associates, members and graduates, the associates being admitted up to 15, the members up to 20 and the graduates to 25 years of age. Competitions were held today for prizes in pianoforte and violin playing, singing, reciting and skirt dancing. Oscar Beringer acted as judge of the reciting. A fancy dress ball, in connection with the salon, is to be given next Tuesday, President Carnot attended the first per ormance of Verdi's "Falstaff" at Opera Comique in Paris. The president of the republic personally presented with the cordon of the Legion of Honor. Verdi declines to come to London, as he fears the passage across the channel. The distinguished composer adds that he is eager to get back to his farm in Italy, as he fears he will be killed by kindness in Paris. Verdi praises highly the histrionic and youal gifts of Mile. Delna, and says that if he was 60 instead of 80 he would write a special opera for her. Whether wisely or not, Dr. Todhunter, author of "A Comedy of Sighs," which has now been withdrawn from the Avenue The ater after a very brief run, has been engulfing the papers with letters denouncing the critics for their strictures on his new

PRIMITIVE METHODS BEST

The Old-Fashioned Country School Had Many Points of Merit.

They had no curriculum, no notions of 'time allotments' and 'harmonious development" and "logical sequence," and the rest of it, says the Atlantic Monthly, but only a simple and direct way of getting children to read, write and cipher at a verearly age, and to be ashamed if they did it badly. Then-and here was the great un conscious principle that the country school was demonstrating-wherever any pupil had a point of individuality to work upon, some taste or some talent, there the teacher found his opportunity. The college youth, himself just waking up to the charm of literature or the fascination of scientific experiment was led instinctively to pass on to his in quiring pupil some spark of the divine fire of original study. The close personality of the relation gave a power to the teaching which no mechanical system could ever attain. It was the method which the experience of the world, from Socrates down, has shown to be the only effective one—the method of direct impact of one mind on an-

Under this system, which was no system, the mind of the pupil blossomed out into the most vigorous growth of which it was capable. It never got the ruinous notion that a machine was going to do the work for it; there was no machine. If the teacher had anything in him it was called out by the fresh, unspolled enthusiasm of the "gat-ting through" the country school. The pupil went there term after term, year after year, simply demanding, as did the pupils of ancient Greece and those of the fair early days of the medieval universities, whatever new the teacher of the moment had to give. There was no "course," because there were no limitations of subject or of time. In that procession of active youth coming from the larger life of the college there was sure to be sooner or later some representative of every subject of study. The strain on the person ality of the teacher was immense, and it pro-duced a response. Individual answered to individual, and out of this give-and-take came originality.

Then there was a change. All this was found to be unscientific. The method must be made conscious of itself. There arose a being whose shadow has since darkened all the land, the "educator." To be simply a teacher was no longer enough; we must have educators, and that quickly. This hodge-podge of pupils of different ages must be broken up into "grades." Every pupil be-longed in a grade, and there he must go and stay: if at the given time there was no grade which he precisely fitted so much the worse for him; away with him into the outer darkness!

"Recently I wrote for your symptom blank and began the home treatment for a catarrh I had had since childhood. I had continual rearing and singing in the cars, with a headace that never stopped. My throat was always sore, the vocal organs impaired, and the tonells discharged yellow lumps. The broachful tubes yielded to the malady, and I had hard work to breathe, my chest and lungs being sore and painful. The eyes were blurred and watery so that my sight became very imperfect. I was more like a dead woman than a live one when you took ite in hand, but you have given me excellent health in exchange for my former distress. I praiso the wonderful home treatment to all my friends."
